

CONFLICT TEXTILES

Peace Summit 2023

The Unfinished Business of Peace and Reconciliation

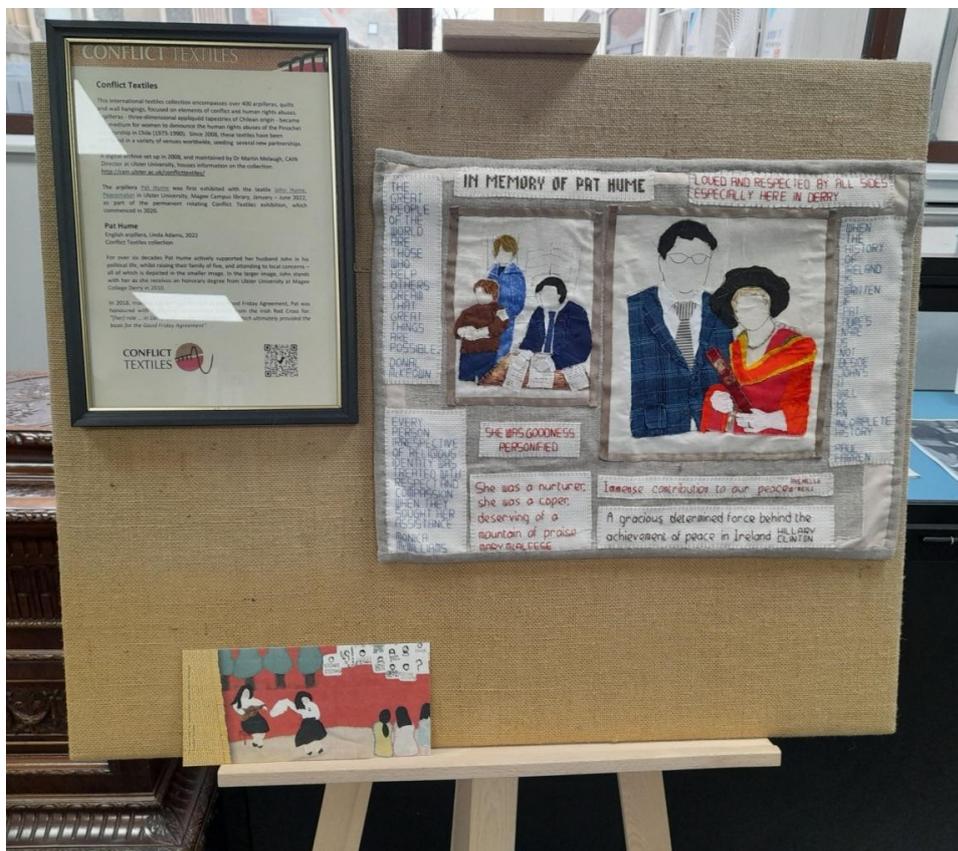

Friday 3rd March, 2023

Conflict Textiles display

Photo gallery

The focus of this Peace Summit at Ulster University's Derry / Londonderry Magee Campus led by the John and Pat Hume Foundation (<https://humefoundation.org/>) and Community Dialogue was to reflect on the progress of peace and reconciliation since 1998, and to discuss what steps still need to be taken.

Conflict Textiles, invited by the Hume Foundation, displayed the arpillera Pat Hume. This arpillera had previously been exhibited with the embroidered portrait John Hume, Peacemaker as part of the Conflict Textiles collection: Magee Campus Library, Ulster University, January – July 2022. Both textiles are included in the wider exhibition programme The Good Friday Agreement: Work in Progress at Roe Valley Arts and Cultural Centre, Limavady, 12th - 16th April.

The arpillera Pat Hume on display at the entrance to the Peace Summit.

Conflict Textiles curator Roberta Bacic in conversation with Professor Paul Arthur.

R-L: Professor Brandon Hamber and Professor Malachy Ó Néill with conference attendees at the Conflict Textiles display.

Marie Tonra, Milford Youth Engagement Future Project Coordinator takes a moment to view Pat Hume.

Professor Brandon Hamber and curator Roberta Bacic in conversation.

Conflict Textiles
Assistant curator
Breege Doherty with Roberta Bacic.

Compilation and photos by Breege Doherty

9th March 2023